
What channel should we put Christensen Outdoors?

Posted by mogster - 2007/10/07 15:30

As most of you know Men's Outdoor & Recreation died an untimely death. They went off the air in September. They got to big too fast and did not plan for their growth very well. They were about to become one of the biggest Outdoor Networks, but instead a 20 year old company closed there doors.. Along with the end of the network went 100's of shows with it. Our Christensen Outdoor's was one of them. Since September we have been researching which channels we should choose or pursue for our new home. I would like to hear from you on what Networks you watch.

1. Of course there is The Outdoor Channel. We started our show here in 2001. They are really the pioneers to the first real hunting channel. The only problem I hear from many people along with my own opinion is they may have forgot what got them to where they are. They keep trying to bring in all these special interest shows and I don't think the viewers are diggin them.
2. Versus- The old OLN channel. By far the largest distribution as far as households go but not a whole lot of hunting on there. Lots of special interest stuff..
3. The Sportsmans Channel- All hunting & fishing all the time. Diffiantely a plus but the real problem here is I can't get there Channel and niether can most people. There distribution is only 5 million. The word is they are looking to land a deal with Dish or Direct that will really make them accesible to most people.
4. Any other networks you watch other than the ones above let me know.

Thanks!!

I have Dish Network, and it only has Versus and The Outdoor Channel. So I vote for one of those two.

I believe either V.S. or the Outdoor Channel would be good choices. Both are readily available on most cable networks. Those would be my two choices. The sportsman channel even though its a great thought were i live at it cost me damn near 18 dollars a month just for that one channel thats why i refuse to have it. Not sure if this is an option but how about ESPN or ESPN 2.

outdoor definitely versus has little outdoor programing mostly hockey bullriding and biking. plus being owned by comcast they cater to urban programing. in the future they will tend towards more football etc. jim cleary phila. pa.

I think that you should put it on SPIKE so that I can watch some bonecrushing ufc fights and then go right into some hardcore huntin action!

Definatly, The Outdoor Channel, if they have room. 2ed would be versus. possibly enough good programing, like your show, would crowd out some of the crap they have on now. BUT--anyplace, would be better than noplac.

Well I appreciate every ones input. My thoughts were to get on the Outdoor Channel which we tried to do. They would not make room for us. They told us they would have to drop a show to add ours. Understanably so, with the Men's Channel going under, it left over 100 Tv shows with out homes.
So here is what we are going to do. We are going to be on the Sportsmans Channel starting 3& 4th quarter of next year. They are currently on many cable networks but not on Direct or Dish. They are pushing for that. Then we are also going to be on a new Network called the Country Adventures Network. This Network will be hunting and fishing mixed with some country music shows. It is scheduled to be on the air in April. They are hoping to be on Direct TV or Dish and maybe even both.
We have some incredible footage in the can this year that we can't wait to share with our vieiwing audience out there. One of our gunmsiths killed a 42" giant that scores over 230" and you won't believe the kill shot, awesome!!! We have another toad buck on film that scores 235". We have some monster elk over 400" on film, great Mtn. Goat footage and much much more... We also have some women on film killing lions, elk and deer. I know I say this every year but this next years footage will be the best ever.. Also don't forget to send us your footage that you may have captured this season..

Thanks for watching the show and watch the website for time slots. ALso remember you can watch past episodes of the show on line. Just click on the TV show link and make sure you are a registered member of the site.
